

Goldmann & Partners, just one year after obtaining the @BCorporation certification, and for the second year in a row, gets the BestForTheWorld2019 award for Environment. The award recognizes the company's ability to create products and/or services that optimize the performance of its customers by helping to reduce the energy and environmental impact of their activities. We consider this award as an important recognition for the strong commitment we have always put into making this world the best possible.
